

Ethics and Values

Let's Answer

A.

1. Not correct. Values are a set of opinions . We learn values throughout our lives.
2. Not correct, Values and ethics are closely related.
3. Correct.
4. Correct.
5. Not correct, We adhere to our set of values it is material whether the people around us adhere to those values.

B.

1. How are values and ethics linked?

Ans:- What is right and what is wrong is directly linked to our values. Our values are our deep beliefs. These then become a yardstick for right and wrong. These collectively make one's character.

- 2 . What lesson do you learn from the story of the carpenter?

Ans:- Human beings are not doing any work the best if it is for others. However if it belongs to him he tried his best . This lesson we learnt from the carpenter's life.

3. How do people manage to make others trust in them?

Ans:- People used to manage to make others trust in them by promising explicitly. Always cheating the others they always tried to make others trust in them.

4. What are the strengths of Azim Premji? Why do you think his company did so well?

Ans: His humbleness and ethical values are the strengths of Azim Premji. He also upholds that integrity and strong determination will be the strengths of his company.

His company did well as the company practising high value integrity and ethics.

5. What is the difference between laws and ethics and values?

Ans: Ethics is a simple matter of right or wrong while values are set of opinions that have been formed by society. Laws in another word are the principles that are framed to follow.
